

EAST PENN - Corydon, Iowa

November 1, 2006 East Penn manufacturing purchased Voltmaster Company, Inc. of Corydon Iowa. Since 1946, East Penn has been producing high-quality lead-acid batteries and battery accessories for the automotive, industrial, commercial, marine, stationary, and specialty markets.

A progressive company committed to the future, East Penn manufactures products to the exacting specifications of both private-label and original equipment customers. In addition, our first-class products are marketed worldwide under the Deka brand name.

To keep pace with the increasing demand for our high quality products, East Penn is constantly pursuing an aggressive expansion plan. In fact, our modern facilities and computer monitoring and control systems have made us the industry's most technologically advanced battery manufacturer.

At East Penn, we are concerned with the welfare of our employees, our environment, and surrounding community, so we are continually upgrading our environmental, health & safety, and recycling facilities.

S. E. Gibbs of Corydon, Iowa founded Gibbs Battery in 1923. The original factory was a 10' x 20' space in the back of a plumbing shop. From those early beginnings, Voltmaster grew.

In 1928, L. L. Fry was hired as shop foreman. In 1951, Fry and three other employees purchased Gibbs Battery and renamed it Voltmaster Company, Inc. Roger Winslow purchased Voltmaster in 1973 and was president until November 1, 2006 when East Penn Manufacturing purchased Voltmaster.

In 1953, the present factory west of Corydon was built. The original plant had 4,000 square feet of manufacturing area. As the business grew, additions brought the total plant size to more than 100,000 square feet. East Penn has plans to expand and grow the battery business in Corydon.
